Time: Subject: English Class: VII M. Marks: 50

Q1. Read the passage and answer the following questions. (5)

The clothes after the Bombay cut that I was wearing were, I thought, unsuitable for English society, and I got new ones at the Army and Navy stores. I also went in for a chimney-pot hat costing nineteen shillings-an excessive price in those days. Not content with this, I wasted ten pounds on an evening suit made in Bond Street, the center of fashionable life in London; and got my good and noble-hearted brother to send me a double watch chain of gold.

It was not correct to wear a ready-made tie and I learned the art of tying one for myself. While in India, the mirror had been a luxury permitted on the days when the family barber gave me a shave. Here I wasted ten minutes every day before a huge mirror, watching myself arranging my tie and parting my hair in the correct fashion.

My hair was by no means soft, and every day it meant a regular struggle with the brush to keep it in position. Each time the hat was put on and off, the hand would automatically move towards the head to adjust the hair, not to mention the other civilized habit of the hand every now and then operating for the same purpose when sitting in polished society.

- Why did the writer get new clothes?
- What other articles did the writer buy?
- How did the writer dress?
- How much did the Chimney pot hat cost?
- What was sent by his brother?

It works in me like madness to bid me say goodbye,

For the seas call, and the stars call, and oh! The call of the sky!

But a man can have the sun for a friend, and for his guide a star;
